

Carimali Design Water_Space: A Completely Italian Story That Rewards the Value of Choices

Ambassador of Italian craftsmanship, with 40 years of history, Carimali design water_space enhances artisanal mastery, transforming it into innovation applied to design and materials.

At its headquarters on the shores of Lake Orta, it preserves the unchanged values of the past: excellence in products and proposed solutions, respect for the environment and territory to create a positive future for the generations to come, without forgetting functionality and ease of use.

Today, Flavio Cajelli, CEO, leads the company towards growth and innovation, personally committing to building a solid company with a strong identity.

“I like to think of our world as a complex ecosystem, made of things but also of people, minds, thoughts, and emotions,” declares Flavio Cajelli. “A virtuous and satisfying process, sometimes difficult and demanding, from which no one is excluded.”

Wellness Solutions, faucets, and design accessories

Carimali, a premium brand reference in the wellness and bathroom environment sector, stands out for its ability to combine the artisanal quality of Made in Italy with elegant and functional design, creating solutions that transform every bathroom space into a total wellness experience.

Product design is an essential aspect for Carimali. The lines and shapes are strongly characterized by Italian style and taste.

A modern, minimalist, and always current design. Innovation, design, and sustainability are the foundations of all Carimali production, redefining the concept of comfort and becoming a reference point in the living bathroom sector.

The Carimali product range extends the faucet offering to complete wellness solutions. The accessories complement the bathroom space in an exclusive and refined environment.

Sustainability and Innovation

Carimali is not only synonymous with quality and design but also with responsibility towards the environment.

The company works with a production chain made up of highly specialized and local suppliers. This short-range system is structured according to a sustainable development model to achieve a low environmental impact. This production system enables constant monitoring of processes and quality, ensuring traceability and sustainability of production. Every product is 100% Made in Italy certified and reflects the elegance of the aesthetic values of pure Italian design.

Carimali is committed to reducing its environmental, economic, and social impact by giving the utmost attention to building and transforming habitats. The goal is to create a business model that not only ensures the long-term sustainability of the company but also takes into account the environment, social well-being, and fair and visionary management.

Thanks to the Suntech STP 200 photovoltaic system, the company can produce up to 90,000 kW per year of green energy, significantly contributing to the reduction of fossil energy use.

Carimali has a highly efficient and high-performance automatic galvanizing plant that operates with zero environmental impact. This plant uses trivalent chromium, an element completely free of toxic, carcinogenic, or mutagenic components, supporting a company policy focused on sustainability. This choice benefits not only the well-being of employees and the protection of the surrounding environment but also the safety of those who choose the company's products for their homes.

A Future of Success and Innovation

With a constant eye on the future, Carimali continues to innovate, expanding its offerings with solutions that respond to new design trends and the needs of a public increasingly attentive to well-being, sustainability, and quality.

A bathroom is never just that; our intimacy is contained within the walls of such a personal space that it becomes the most important. This is what we believe in, and this is why we are committed to creating products that bring to life environments with design and functionality that provide well-being for those who entrust us with their intimacy on a daily basis.

“Improving the quality of life and psychophysical well-being of people through the creation of design products, without forgetting functionality and ease of use, and with a special focus on the environment” is our mission. Achieving this by thinking of our “world” as a complex ecosystem made of things but also of people, minds, thoughts, emotions, and ideas, putting passion, attention, soul, and effort into our work is our vision.

Website:

<https://www.carimali.it>